he Women's Club of Jersey City New Knews All About Motions and Amendments to Metions and Amend-ments to Amendments-A Fractical Britis

Mrs. E. S. Osgood gave what she designated as a "parliamentiary law, lecture and drill" to the Women's Club in Hashronck Hall Jersey City, on Thursday afternoon. The lecture was given under direction of the Educational Committee of the club. The hall was well filled with Aub members. Mrs. Osgood comes from Maine. She has a very commanding presence. She said she did not intend giving a lecture, but an object lesson, and then proceeded to explain the meaning and uses of motions dependent on subsidiary motions. A presiding officer, she said, is the servant of the club. She should preside, call the assembly to order, present the business, protect the minority, be impartial, have tact, "and Mr. Thomas B. Reed says," she added, "have a good presence." The gist of club constitutions, Mrs. Osgood said, was contained in the rules which her 7-year old niece told her governed her club. The members were enjoined to mind their own business, and the bosses were directed not to boss around too much.

When you take the floor," Mrs. Osgood "you must not 'think,' or, at least, you must not say so. If you want to make a motion don't say, 'I think.' Of course, you think, or you wouldn't have taken the floor. And don't say, 'It seems to me.' Of course, it does, or you wouldn't talk about it. Don't say, 'I make a move,' or 'I make a motion,' or 'I move you.' You don't do either of these things. You might find it hard sometimes to move toe President. What you should say to.

Mrs. Osgood then requested the ladies to imagine that they were there in response to a call for a meeting in the interest of correct dress. Carrying out that theory, she said they would suppose that Mrs. Brett had signed the call for the meeting. That made it Mrs. Brett's duty to call the meeting to order. Mrs. Brett, who is the wife of the Rev. Dr. Brett, seemed a little embarrassed. She walked ove to Mrs. Osgood and asked her in a whisper "What shall I say?" Mrs. Osgood whispered something in return, and then Mrs. Brett braced up. Tapping her fan on the back of a chair, she said in a firm voice:

"The time having arrived for which the meeting has been called, you will please come to order and nominate a temporary Chairman. Mrs. Keating, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Cushing. and Mrs. Osgood were placed in nomination. A vote was taken and Mrs. Osgood was elected. Mrs. Brett whispered to Mrs. Osgood again and then said: "I appoint Mrs. Rohrback to escort Mrs. Osgood to the platform. Mrs. Rohrback performed that duty gracefully, and Mrs. Brott resumed her seat with a sigh of relief strongly indicating that she was glad she was out of it. Mrs. Osgood made a short speech expressing her thanks for the unexpected honor and pledging herself, just as policions do, to fill the place impartially and to the best of her ability. Mrs. Rohrback was elected Secretary. She smilled her thanks and sat down beside the Chairman. "Oh, that won't do," said Mrs. Osgood, "You are expected to make a short speech of thanks." "An 1?" asked Mrs. Rohrback. "Well, I thank you very much for the honor done me, but I am afraid some one else will have to do the work, as I left my glasses at home."

"In that case," said Mrs. Osgood. "It would be best to decline."

Mrs. Rohrback declined, and Mrs. Creveling was elected Secretary.

Mrs. Osgood made a brief speech explaining the object of the meeting, and impressing on her hearers the importance of correct druss.

"Now let somebody make a motion of some kind," she asid, "so that we can hav a drill on motions." lief strongly indicating that she was glad she

Mrs. Keating stood up and said, "Mrs. Prest-

Mrs. Keating stood up and said, "Mrs. President."

"Mrs. Chairman, if you please," interrupted Mrs. Osgood. "I am not President."

"Mrs. Chairman, then," said Mrs. Keating, "I would like to move whether—"

"Please say, "I move," said Mrs. Osgood.

"I move, then," said Mrs. Keating, "whether it is advisable to shorten the skirts four inches from the ground for rainy weather, or whether we should do it all the time?"

"Such a statement of a motion is impracticable," said Mrs. Osgood. "Never state a motion negatively, and always put it as concisely as possible." as possible."

Mrs. Keating got it right the next time. "I move," she said. "that we wear walking skirts four inches from the ground."

"I second it," said Mrs. Nowbury.
"Please rise and address the Chair, Mrs. Newbury," said the Chairman.

Newbury," said the Chairman. "Mrs. Chairman, I second the motion," said Newbury," said the Chairman.
"Mrs. Thairman, I second the motion," said
Mrs. Newbury, rising.
Mrs. John A. Walker, the wife of a former President of the Board of Education, tried to offer an amendment to the motion, but Mrs.
Osgood informed her that it could not be entertained until after the motion had been stated. The Chairman stated the motion, and then Mrs. Walker offered an amendment to nake it three inches, instead of four.
Mrs. Horsley moved to amend the amendment by inserting the words, "in rainy ment by inserting the words, "in rainy weather."

"I am glad you said that," said Mrs. Osgood, "What you offer is not an amendment to the amendment, but an amendment to the original motion, and cannot be entertained until the amendment is disposed of." Mrs. Walker asked if it would be an amendment to the amendment to substitute two inches for three, and she was t-ld that it would. By this time the ladies were becoming very much interested. Mrs. Walker's amendment was lost, and then Mrs. Horsiey got in her amendment about rainy weather. Mrs. E. V. R. Brinckerhoff offered an amendment to include muddy weather. She said she thought fluidly weather was just as bad as rainy weather. The amendment to the amendment was carried, and without any further discussion the original motion as amended was adopted. The ladies left the meeting thoroughly convinced that they are as well informed on parliamentary law as some Congressmen.

ATLANTIC AVENUE TRACKS.

Electricity in Place of Steam the Only Re-

At the conference with Mayor Wurster of Brooklyn yesterday the Commissioners who have been considering plans for the improve-ment of Atlantic avenue reported that the proposition to depress the tracks of the Long Island Railroad had been abandoned. The en gineers, it was said, had previously estimated the cost of tunneiling the road at from $4,000,000 to $8,000,000, and the Commissioners considered that neither the city nor the railroad company would be willing to undertake such an expenditure. In their report to the Legislature the Commissioners will probably recommend the use of electricity in place of steam by the railroad company as the only available immediate relief.

CORNELL AFTER O'BRIEN.

Angry at Prisoners Being Taken to Head-quarters When Due in Court.

As J. H. Astruck, an electrician of 11 East Forty-ninth street, was getting off a cross-town car at Fifty-ninth street and Madison avenue Thursday night, a man on the platform endeavored to wrench from Astruck's scarf $200 diamond pin. The pin was bent, but was not pulled from the scarf, as it was fastened in the nack by a bolt. The thief jumped from the car and started to run away. Astruck chased him, raising a hue and cry, and the fugitive was captured at Park avenue by Polloeman Burger of the East Sixty-and cry, and the fugitive was captured at Fark avenue by Policeman Burger of the East Sixty-seventh street station. The prisoner described himself as Edward Nelson, 20 years old, of 223 East Eighty-seventh street.

Astruck was present in Yorkville Court at 8 o'clock yeaterday morning in accordance with instructions from the police. He waited until 10 o'clock and then told Magistrate Cornell that he had business engagements which precluded his waiting any longer. The Magistrate allowed him to go on his promise te return later in the day to press his charge.

Within a few milautes Burger arrived in court with his prisoner. He told the Magistrate that he had been ordered to take Nelson to Headquarters and that that had caused the delay, Magistrate Cornell grew very angry and said:

"I have several times spoken of the illegality of Capt. O'Brien's action in thus clogging and holding up the courts at his pleasure and to suit his convenience. I have talked enough, and, if possible, will call on the Police Commissioners soon to see about this matter. If they will not take steps to stop Capt. O'Brien's actions I will take other means."

Burger said that at Headquarters Nelson had been recognized as Max Freeum, a professional crook, whose picture is 3,491 in the Rogues' Gallery.

MRS, MARIA E. ANDREWS'S ALIMONT Fixed at 885 a Week, and Mr. Andrews

Counsel for Maria E. Andrews applied to Justice Van Wyck in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, for alimony and counsel fee in the suit brought by Lyman S. Andrews against her for absolute divorce. The couple were married eighteen years ago and have eleven children, all of whom are living. Mr. Andrews is the confidential clerk of Andrew H. Green, formerly Comptroller of this city. He is in receipt of an income of $3,150 a year. A referee took the testimony and a decision was rendered in favor of the wife. The report of the referee will be presented to the court for confirmation will be presented to the court for confirmation on Nov. 30.

Six of the children are at school and the other five are with the mother, in Westchester country. Mrs. Andraws's counsel said they were in destitute circumstances, and that tradesmen had a number of bills against them. He asked for alimony pending the decision of the case, and said it was understood the piantiff was to appeal from the report of the referee. Counsel for Mr. Andrews said his client could not afford to pay more than $2.000 during the past year for the education of his six eidest children. Justice Van Wyck fixed the alimony at $35 a week.

"How about the tradesmen's bills?" asked counsel for Mrs. Andrews.

"He's liable for them," said the Justice.

MOTT HAVEN CANAL.

The City Asked to Close It or Open It or The old fight about closing the Mott Haven Canal from 138th street to 144th was renewed vesterday at a hearing before the Board of Street Opening, which was held in the Mayor's office. About fifty residents of the north side were present. Senator Guy and Gen. Viele wanted the city either to close the canal or to condemn it and maintain it as a public waterway. J. Homer Hildreth, who opposed this proposition on behalf of the property owners interested, produced an injunction granted in 1894, whereby the city is restrained from interfering with the water flow in the canal, and during the discussion which followed a communication was read from the "Doctors' Club" protesting against the continuance of the canal on the ground that it was a mensee to public on the ground that it was a mensee to public health.

"What are the names of those doctors?" asked J. M. Youlard, who has lived on the bank of the canal for nearly a half century without any damage to his health. When the names were read the old man snifted disdainfully.

The Board decided to refer the whole matter again to the Corporation Counsel. The canal was condemned the other day by the Board of Health as a public nuisance.

He's got over his drunk now, and will go to work and earn some money for his family if you let him go. If you lock him up, he can't, and I'll lose all that. FORGET DOWNS MAURICE.

The Winner's Sudden Reversal of Form to Be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20,-The fourth day's races of the autumn meeting at Bennings were run in raw, damp weather, with slight sprinkles of rain. Three prime favorites and a well-backed second choice won, but the "bookies" evened up on the third race, when Maurice, the odds-on pick of the knowing ones, and Counsellor Howe, at almost even money, fell down be-fore Forget, a rank outsider. The latter, at 12 fore Forget, a rank outsider. The latter, at 12 to 1, was scarcely nibbled at, while Volley went begging at 20 to 1 or better. Forget set the pace from the beginning, leading by three lengths for the entire distance. Maurice and Counsellor Howe had a pretty neck-and-neck brush in the backstretch, but the latter quit at the turn and was passed by Volley, who finished third, five lengths behind Maurice.

Waller rode his seventh winner on Mohawk Prince to-day, and ended his apprenticeship. He will now have to apply for a license to the Jockey Club.

He will now have to apply for a license to the Jockey Club.

It is said that a big coup was made through Forget's victory over Maurice. Very little money went on at the track, but it is reported that large sums were bet in poolrooms all over the country. Au investigation will be held into the startling reversal of form shown by Forget. Hirsch was called into the stand and questioned after he had finished with Convention.

Tod Sloan had a narrow escape from being injured in the last race. The saddle slipped on Brilliancy and he came near failing off several times. The horse would have won only for this accident. The trainer was warned to be careful about such matters in the future. In his previous race the boy on Brilliancy finished with one stirrup.

John S. Johnson Suspended by the L. A. W. for Not Filling a Contract, MEMPHIS, Nov. 20.-John S. Johnson to-day was suspended by the Racing Board until he fulfilled certain conditions. He did not give his usual exhibition this evening at the Collseum races. Tom Eck, also under suspension for the same cause, occupied a seat in the grand stand. The men are under suspension until they pay damages to the Portland, Me., promoters, with damages to the Portland, Me., promoters, with whom they failed to keep an engagement late in August. Johnson came to this connerty to fulfil that engagement, but his firm would not back him, and he was unable to take a team on his own responsibility. Eck was in Europe and did not know that the contract was not filled.

Eck and Johnson will remain suspended until the damages to the Portland people are paid. This will be done in the pear future. Johnson leaves for home to-morrow. Eck to-day received a telegram from Portland saying that a note would be acceptable for the present, previding the non-payment on the same would not cancel the liability for damages. This Chairman Gideon evidently would not accept, as the local management received no reply from him.

The first bout was between Frank Zimpfer of Buffalo and Danny McMahon of Detroit. They In the seventh round Zimpfer was advised to mix it up. The boys punched away at each other without any let up. Zimpfer sent his right into McMahon's stomach, and the latter awung weakly for the jaw. A jab on Zimpfer's

The Buffalo boy countered twice on the jaw punched him right and left, and McMahon was so groggy that he could scarcely stand. At this juncture the referee stopped the bout and gave his decision to Zimpfer.

The second bout introduced Bobby Dobba, colored, and Joe Fielding, an Englishman. The limit of this "go" was ten rounds, at 138 pounds. In the first round Fielding went after Dobbs, but a punch in the pit of the stomson sent the Englishman down. Fielding took his time in getting up. Dobbs had the advantage all through. In the fifth round he smashed the Englishman with his right on the jaw. Fielding went down in a heap and had to be excorted to his corner. Dobbs, of course, won.

The wind up was between Henry Baker of Chicago, who recently met Dan Croedon, and Charley Strong, colored, of Newark. They were to box twelve rounds at catch weights. It was Strong's fight throughout. In the tenth round Baker floundered around the ring, and was sent off his pins twice. Ho was in such a helpless condition that the referre put an end to the one-sided combat. Strong escaped without a scratch, while Baker was badly used up.
